

The Utah Safety Council is committed to prevent the spread of COVID-19 (Coronavirus). Following Governor Herbert's recent recommendations regarding social distancing guidelines, we have implemented protocols to ebb the spread of the virus. During this challenging time, the Utah Safety Council will continue to support occupational safety in Utah's industries, but effective immediately all classroom training sizes will be restricted to comply with guidelines communicated by the Utah Coronavirus Task Force.

These same social distancing guidelines will apply to our defensive driving and Alive at 25 classes. Utah drivers who have been cited for a moving violation and are required to take a live defensive driving course, are advised to contact the Utah Driver's License Division or their local municipality regarding the deadlines for completing the class.

Until further notice, the Utah Safety Council is open, and our program managers are available to help you with any questions regarding our operations during this pandemic outbreak. Please communicate with us by email at safety@utahsafetycouncil.org or calling 801-746-7233. Several training classes have been cancelled or postponed, please refer to our website for updated class schedules and updates: www.utahsafetycouncil.org

The Utah Safety Council will continue to follow all government updates, guidance and reports to determine the appropriate course of action for any USC class. As things evolve, updates will be communicated regularly to you and posted on our website.
